ABSTRACT

This third of a four-volume report of Project EDNEED II (Empirical Determination of Nationally Essential Educational Data) is a directory of State agency data collection forms that were coded and analyzed during the course of the project. (Project EDNEED II, conducted from July 1975 to September 1976, was designed to document the extent to which data currently collected by State vocational education agencies could be used to answer prioritized vocational education informational needs of all 50 States and five U.S. territories.) The directory consists of a cross-indexed listing of forms for each State and territory, arranged in alphabetical order. A seven column format is used which identifies forms by the following characteristics: (1) a unique index number, (2) the form number, if available, (3) the date or revision date, where available, (4) the full title, (5) a coded listing of unit(s) by which data was collected, (6) a coded determination of major content areas covered by the form, and (7) where possible, the title of those preparing, signing, and/or approving the form. In addition to documenting all the forms that were included in the Project EDNEED II analyses, Volume III is intended to assist State agencies in locating data collection instruments that might facilitate their own development of forms. ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The first phase of Project EDNEED II has been entirely dependent on the time and effort expended by the states and territories in their excellent (98.2%) response to the forms survey. Grateful appreciation is extended to all staff personnel in vocational education agencies throughout the states and territories who patiently responded to the initial survey and to subsequent follow-up and verification procedures. The project also gratefully acknowledges the assistance of Mr. Harold Duis of the U. S. Office of Education, Mr. William Nightwine, formerly of Project Baseline, and the Committee on Evaluation and Information Systems (CEIS) of the Council of Chief State School Officers in supplying material used in the study.

Numerous professional vocational educators, consultants and technical MIS personnel have helped with discussion, advice and critical appraisal during the span of this project. Particular mention, however, should be made of the expertise and counsel of Dr. Donald Drewes and Dr. Joseph Nerden of Conserva, Incorporated. The assistance throughout the project of Mr. Jack Wilson, Project Monitor, is especially appreciated.

Finally, grateful acknowledgement is extended to the former Project Director, Dr. Robert Morgan, and to the entire staff of the Center for Occupational Education for their commitment to the successful completion of the project.

THE CENTER

John K. Coster, Director

The Center for Occupational Education at North Carolina State University at Raleigh is a research and development center established in 1965 under the provisions of the Vocational Education Act of 1963. The Center has been established as an integral unit within the School of Education at North Carolina State University, and its major programs have been supported by contracts and grants with the National Institute of Education and the U. S. Office of Education. The Center has as its mission the provision—through research, development, and related activities—of a continuing contribution to the improvement of occupational education. The major research and development programs of the Center focus on the relationship of occupational education to its context or environment. The frame of reference for occupational education includes its relationship to regional economy, politics, and the employment or work environment. In addition the Center has a capability for flexible action within its overall mission through activities negotiated on a project-by-project basis with contracting agencies.

THE EDNEED SERIES IN VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

The EDNEED (Empirical Determination of Nationally Essential Educational Data) Series published by the Center for Occupational Education, North Carolina State University consists of a five volume final report entitled Data Needs in Vocational Education and a four volume final report entitled Data Availability in Vocational Education. The former is a product of Project EDNEED I, G. William Porter, Project Director; the latter is a product of EDNEED II, co-directed by Douglas Katz and John E. S. Lawrence. Both EDNEED projects were funded by the U. S. Office of Education, Bureau of Occupational and Adult Education, under Part C Grants.

PROJECT SUMMARY

Project EDNEED was conceived as an important first step toward the development of a basic information system for vocational education. Project EDNEED I (July, 1974 - December, 1975) focused on the identification and prioritization of the vocational education informational needs of users at the national, state and local levels. One product of that effort was a prioritized listing of data questions concerning vocational education which reflected the informational needs at all three levels. Those prioritized questions served as a primary input to the present study.

Project EDNEED II (July, 1975 - September, 1976) was designed to document the extent to which data currently collected by state vocational education agencies could be used to answer the prioritized Project EDNEED I questions. Two approaches were used to achieve this goal. The first phase focused on the gathering and cataloguing of all state vocational education agency data collection forms. Each item of information on a data collection form was classified in relation to the most appropriate Project EDNEED question(s). Subsequent analyses revealed the extent to which the available data corresponded to the informational needs of user groups at the national, state and local levels.

In the second phase of Project EDNEED II, field visits were made to ten states to gather more information on alternative approaches to answering the top-priority Project EDNEED I questions. Preliminary analyses of the states' data collection forms had raised numerous questions concerning the accessibility of the data being collected. The field visits provided information on the problems that would be encountered in collecting the necessary data and aggregating them to the appropriate levels.

The results of Project EDNEED II are presented in four volumes. In Volume I the informational needs identified in Project EDNEED I are discussed in relation to the data currently available at the state level as indicated by state agency data collection forms. The procedures used to derive and organize the vocational education Data Base are described, and an exemplary core of questions and data elements is presented which represents information that is both highly needed and widely collected. A procedure for empirically selecting alternative sets of questions is also described in detail.

The Data Base that was developed is presented in its entirety in Volume II. Each EDNEED question and corresponding data elements are indexed in terms of relative need and current availability. The index of need reflects the combined ratings of federal, state and local data user groups, with each level receiving equal importance weightings in the analyses.

The state agency data collection forms that were coded and analyzed during the course of the project are listed in Volume III. Each form is categorized by its major subject areas, and a cross-index is included to enable the reader to locate the various states' forms according to content. In addition to documenting all the forms that were included in the Project EDNEED II analyses, Volume III is intended to assist state agencies in locating data collection instruments that might facilitate their own development of forms.

Volume IV presents the results of the field visits to ten states and focuses on the procedures those states would use to answer the 50 highest priority EDNEED questions. Alternative approaches to answering each question are presented, and problems relating to data aggregation, format and data element definitions are discussed.

FOREWORD

This is the third of four volumes that together constitute the Project EDNEED II Final Report, Data Availability in Vocational Education. It contains what is perhaps the most comprehensive listing ever made of vocational education data collection forms in use in the 55 states and territories at one point in time (July 1, 1975). This Directory is valuable as a quick overview of the types and amount of vocational education data being collected.

The Development of the Directory

The simultaneous collection of instruments from 55 states and territories provided a unique opportunity for the cataloguing of state vocational education agency (SVEA) forms. Therefore, this national forms directory was compiled from the abundance of materials--including data collection forms per se, guidelines, instructions, definitions, memoranda, and additional explanatory material--provided by the states and territories in response to a request from Project EDNEED II. The Directory lists those forms used for the collection of vocational education data plus additional administrative/procedural forms necessary to the operation of the state vocational education data collection process.

Forms collected from all sources were matched and sifted for duplicates and updates, and an integrated listing was compiled for each SVEA. This listing was then sent back to 46 of the 55 responding agencies with a letter asking for verification of comprehensiveness and currency. The nine exceptions had already sent their own listing, had verified Project EDNEED II's list through personal contact, or had failed to return a complete package in time for analysis. Some agencies responded to the listing with corrections and/or additions; the remainder were assumed, by their lack of response to the listings, to endorse the accuracy of coverage according to the instructions in the accompanying letter.

Currency proved to be a concept that could only be approximated. Some SVEAs made direct reference to major revisions in their forms packages that obviated "complete" or "current" responses to the survey. Many SVEAs indicated top management changes during the time of the survey, and still other states, in subsequent personal communication with project staff, indicated the probability of further changes in their forms in FY 1976. However, it is estimated that as complete and current a forms package as it was possible to collect was obtained from SVEAs at this time.

Organization of the Directory

The Directory consists of a cross-indexed listing of forms for each state and territory, arranged in alphabetical order. Figure 1 illustrates the format design of the Directory. The forms are identified by the following characteristics across the page:

1. a unique index number;
2. the form number, if available;
3. the date or revision date, where available;

- x
4. the full title (or explanatory reference where the form is untitled);
 5. a coded listing of unit(s) by which data are collected (e.g., individual student, curriculum, school, etc.);
 6. a coded determination of major content areas covered by the form; and
 7. where possible, the title of those preparing, signing and/or approving the form.

The Unit(s) of Collection and Content Codes (see Figure 2) provide information concerning the data coverage of individual forms, since it was impractical to reproduce all forms. These units of collection and major function or content areas covered are identified by code (e.g., CU, curriculum; SD, student; FI, financial, etc.). The other (OT) category is used to indicate any data collected in addition to those areas covered by the Content Code categories. Assignments of Content Codes are based on project staff judgments and are intended merely as guides to content and not assessments of specific items of data on every form.

On many SVEA forms, blanks are designated for the signature and/or title of the "Individual preparing form" or "Approved by." Unless some identifying information, such as a title or agency designation, is provided or a positive determination of the completer of the form can be deduced from the content of the form itself, the column headed "Form completed or approved by" is left blank.

Content Cross-Index

Concurrent with the Directory of Data Collection Forms, the Content Cross-Index--organized according to the 12 content areas listed in the Directory--was developed to make the Directory more informative and meaningful. The Cross-Index presents an overview of data collection by Content Area (or category) across the states and territories. The data collection forms, listed by their Directory Index Numbers, are categorized by the information they contain. Those index numbers which are underlined denote the major data emphases of a particular form. The reader can determine, by noting the Directory Index Numbers, the specific forms on which the data are collected in any one state or territory. If a state is considering revision of its forms for collecting a specific category of data--e.g., Student Follow-Up--reference to the Cross-Index can lead to a helpful exchange of ideas and information between states. It is possible, in addition, to learn the approximate level of collection of data for any of the Content Areas by scanning all of the state and territory listings for that category.
